Course Description:

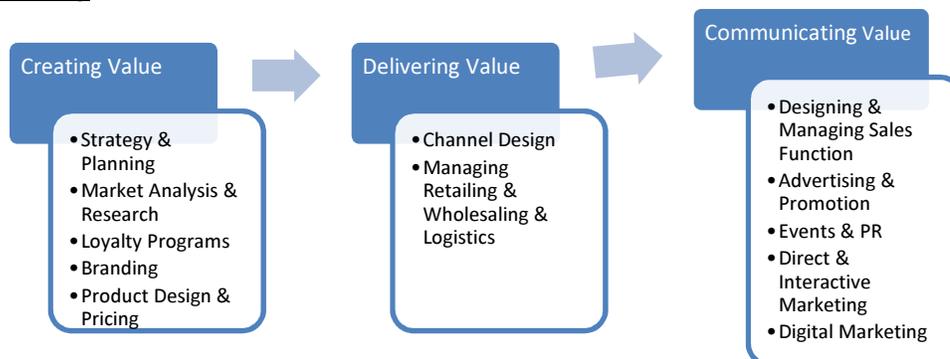

This course is part of a two-course series designed to provide students with an overview of the field of marketing management. This overview is given via a survey of the various responsibilities that comprise typical product/brand management roles in industry. The course uses a mix of scholarly works and practical applications. Marketing management is explored within the traditional packaged goods arena as well as business-to-business and, to a small extent, the nonprofit sector. The survey began in SBNM 5610 and is completed in this course, SBNM 5611—Advanced Marketing Management.

Introductory Comments:

Welcome to the course. I look forward to investigating marketing management with you!

This course continues the survey of marketing management which began in SBNM 5610. For those who just completed SBNM 5610, we'll pick up right where we left off last quad. For those who completed SBNM 5610 a while ago, or those who have waived SBNM 5610, you might want to review the first 11 chapters of the textbook as a refresher.

Marketing management is the process of creating customer value, delivering that value and communicating that value:

The topics covered in SBMN 5610 focused on “creating value.” Here in SBNM 5611, we will wrap-up discussion of value creation and move on to “delivering value” and “communicating value.”

Essential IDEA Objectives:

The essential objectives of this course (per the IDEA framework, a nationally recognized assessment tool used by many higher learning institutions) are:

1. Learning fundamental principles, generalizations, or theories.
2. Learning to apply course material (to improve thinking, problem solving, and decisions).
3. Learning to analyze and critically evaluate ideas, arguments, and points of view.

Specific Course Objectives:

This course is part of a two-course series designed to provide students with an overview of the field of marketing management. This overview is given via a survey of the various responsibilities that comprise typical product/brand management roles in industry. Modules include strategic and marketing planning, consumer behavior, marketing and advertising research, segmentation strategies, branding, competitive and marketing mix strategies, and positioning concepts. The course uses a mix of scholarly works and practical applications. Marketing management is explored within the traditional packaged goods arena as well as business-to-business and, to a small extent, the nonprofit sector. The survey begins in SBNM 5610 and is completed in SBNM 5611.

SBNM 5610 is a prerequisite to this course, so students entering this course will have previously demonstrated ability to:

- Gather and assess information about customers' needs and buying patterns, and subsequently determine a product's value to potential customers.
- Given a marketing decision facing a firm, determine what type of market research would be relevant to the decision. Make recommendations about how to gather that research; determine how much money should be spent; how to analyze the results; and be able to present findings to senior management.
- Given information about a product line's history, assess market situation, industry and competition to make recommendations for future marketing decisions regarding the product.
- Given information about a firm's size, history, and organizational structure, assess industry and market situation to recommend a process for successfully bringing a new product to market.
- Assess the relevance of ethical considerations on marketing decisions.

Upon subsequent successful completion of this course, SBNM 5611, students will have further ability to utilize information gathered through applied business research to develop a product Marketing Plan consistent with the product's position in the market:

- Gather information about a product's cost structure and the costs of any proposed marketing activities, calculate the product's unit contribution and determine the break-even point for the proposed marketing expenditures. Make recommendations for modifying the proposed marketing budget based on your analysis.
- Gather information about a product's cost structure and competition, analyze potential pricing alternatives and make a pricing recommendation.
- Weighing information about customers' needs and buying patterns and the internal capabilities of a company, design a channel strategy for specific products or services produced by that company.
- Assess a product's characteristics and selling benefits to design a sales management plan and develop hiring, training, and compensation recommendations for the sales force.
- Gather information about the external environment and a product's features & benefits, and make recommendations regarding advertising, sales promotions, and public relations.

Course Methodology:

The goal of a good management education program should be to give students the opportunity to study and practice the application of management theory. Just studying theory without the opportunity to practice the application of that theory is not very effective. Upon completing their business education, managers will be expected to be able to apply what they've learned to real-world business situations. Just as a doctor or scientist would not be unleashed into the world to practice their craft without first successfully demonstrating that they are able to apply their learnings to real-world situations, so must an aspiring business leader

In this course, students will have the opportunity to apply all the marketing principles studied in the two course series (SBNM 5610 & SBNM 5611) to build a comprehensive marketing plan. The plan will be built piece by piece, by preparing segments of the plan on a weekly basis.

Computer Requirements:

In order to effectively participate in and successfully complete this course, each participant will need to have access to a computer and a high-speed internet connection. Please visit <http://www.northpark.edu/Campus-Life-and-Services/Information-Technology/Network/Minimum-Requirements> for information on computer requirements.

Technical Skills Required:

A windows-based software package will be used to create the marketing plan. Students will need to be able to download and load this software onto their computers, and operate the software per the instructions provided by the software provider.

MARKETING PLAN PROJECT

Assignment Specifications:

The purpose of this project is to develop a Marketing Plan for a product (goods or service). Think of yourself as a marketing professional who has been charged with preparing a marketing plan. The project should be built around the detailed model of the company's marketing strategy as presented in Chapter 2 of your textbook, using the Sales and Marketing Pro (SMP) software as a guide. The project should be developed and submitted according to the timetable indicated earlier in the Schedule of Weekly Assignments.

Marketing Plan Topic Selection

Identify a product which will be the subject of your marketing plan. Submit a brief summary (preferably ½ page in length, but absolutely no more than 1 full page) describing the goods/service you've selected for your marketing plan. Be very clear as to whether the marketing plan will pertain to a single product or a product-line. And, also note whether this product is a global offering or whether the product is regionally specific. Explain why this good/service was selected, the parent company (and subsidiaries, if applicable) and indicate what sources of information you will use to gather the information needed for marketing plan. This summary should be a WORD file, submitted via Moodle.

The marketing plan will be developed using a commercial software package, which will generate the marketing plan outline and facilitate the creation of the plan document. The software package is Sales and Marketing Pro by Palo Alto Software¹, which is provided at a discount for North Park students. (Note that they do not support a MAC version of this product. In the past, student with MACs utilized a WINDOWS emulator to run this software on their MACs.) You can purchase this software directly from Palo Alto Software for $62.95. You will be asked to prove that you are a student at NPU. Here is the link: http://www.paloalto.com/specials/north_park_marketing (Note, students with accessibility concerns should contact our Student Support Specialist through the following link: <http://www.northpark.edu/ada>)

The software is downloadable directly from the company's website. The software is also available on several computers on NPU campus. It is installed on the two computers in the foyer of the first floor of Magnuson and also on the first eight computers in the User Ed lab on the second floor of the library

Submitting Marketing Plan Assignment

The marketing plan is to be prepared per the schedule given in the Schedule of Weekly Assignments. You will build the marketing plan by completing certain sections of the plan each week. And, note that each week, you will be responsible for incorporating any instructor feedback given from the previous week, as well as the newly assigned sections for that week. You will therefore input additional information into the same file each week.

The marketing plan file generated by Sales and Marketing Pro will have a ".dtmx" file extension. This is the file which you will submit each week via the link provided in Moodle.

Your marketing plan project will graded according to the following criteria:

POLICY STATEMENTS

Academic Honesty

In keeping with our Christian heritage and commitment, North Park University and the School of Business and Nonprofit Management are committed to the highest possible ethical and moral standards. Just as we will constantly strive to live up to these high standards, we expect our students to do the same. To that end, cheating of any sort will not be tolerated. Students who are discovered cheating are subject to discipline up to and including failure of a course and expulsion.

Our definition of cheating includes but is not limited to:

1. Plagiarism – the use of another’s work as one’s own without giving credit to the individual. This includes using materials from the internet.
2. Copying another’s answers on an examination.
3. Deliberately allowing another to copy one’s answers or work.
4. Signing an attendance roster for another who is not present.

In the special instance of group work, the instructor will make clear his/her expectations with respect to individual vs. collaborative work. A violation of these expectations may be considered cheating as well. For further information on this subject you may refer to the Academic Dishonesty section of the University’s online catalog.

In conclusion, it is our mission to prepare each student for a life of significance and service. Honesty and ethical behavior are the foundation upon which such lives are built. We therefore expect the highest standards of each student in this regard.

Attendance Policy for Graduate Courses

The graduate courses in the SBNM are all 7 weeks in length. Missing one class session is allowed without penalty as long as all readings and assignments are made up by the student within a reasonable time period (the following week). Failing to log into an online course site for an entire week is allowed, but a penalty may be applied at the instructor’s discretion. Missing a second class session is allowed only in unusual circumstances by prior arrangement with the instructor. Since this represents almost 30% of the engagement time for the course, the student runs the risk of receiving a lower overall grade for the SBNM 5611 - Backlund class. Faculty are encouraged to drop the course grade by a full letter grade in this situation. A student who misses three classes (or the equivalent for an online class) will automatically fail the course, unless the student drops the course before the seventh week of class. Students who drop a course will be held responsible for tuition, based upon the current North Park University policy outlined in the University Catalog (found on the NPU website).

Attendance Policy for Undergraduate Courses

Attendance and participation are vital. Thus, students are expected to attend every class session, and to arrive on time – tardiness is undesirable and disruptive to your fellow classmates. This course has a strict requirement of documented, advance notification. If you are unable to attend any class session, you are to inform me (preferably by email) prior to that session. You need to provide a reason for your absence. Failure to provide advance notification will result in an unexcused absence. Be advised that poor attendance can affect your grade adversely

APA Requirement

The School of Business and Nonprofit Management (SBNM) has adopted the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA) as the standard and required format for all written assignments in SBNM courses.

Our goal in adopting the APA Manual is to enhance student learning by:

- 1) Improving student's writing skills.
- 2) Standardizing the required format of all written assignments in all SBNM courses.
- 3) Emphasizing the importance of paper mechanics, grammatical constructs, and the necessity of proper citations.
- 4) Holding students accountable for high quality written work.

If you are unfamiliar with the requirements of the APA Manual, we recommend that you purchase the reference manual and/or that you consult one or more of the suggested resources as listed on the Student Resources section of the SBNM website. It is your responsibility to learn and ensure that all written work is formatted according to the standards of the APA Manual.

Students with disabilities who believe that they may need accommodations in this class are encouraged to contact your program's office (Business: 773-244-6270).
