Swedish-American Archives of Greater Chicago
Manuscript Collection #35
Exhibitions by Swedish-American Artists at the Swedish Club of Chicago, 1911-1982

Please note the list of artists, compiled from catalogs found in this collection.

SIZE: 2 Archives boxes

HISTORY: The first attempt to collect works of Swedish-American artists was made ca. 1900 in Lindsborg, Kansas where an exhibition of their works was held at Bethany College with works of American artists. In 1905 a Swedish-American Art Association was formed in Chicago and held an exhibition which had limited success; the association soon folded. In 1911, however, the first annual exhibition of Swedish-American art was held at The Swedish Club of Chicago. The Swedish Club News of February 25, 1911 announced that Next Saturday evening, March 11, at 8 o'clock, the greatest, most complete, and most comprehensive exhibition of the works of Swedish-American artists ever attempted will open at our clubhouse.

In the first show 101 works by 24 artists and 3 sculptors were listed as being on display. Included were three artists who were to become well-known in the larger world of American art -- John Carlson, Olaf Grafström, and Birger Sandzen.

Fourteen exhibits were held between 1911 and 1926. Eight were held between 1927 and 1941. None were held during World War II (1942 through 1945). Exhibits were held annually in 1946, 1947, and 1948. In 1949 the exhibits were shown on a biannual basis through 1959. The last two exhibits, the 32nd and 33rd, were held in 1961 and 1964. Altogether thirty-three exhibits were held over a period of fifty-four years.

Exhibitions came from across the country, but the core of artists were Chicagoans. The vitality of that art colony is evident in the 1929 publication "Svenska Konstnärer" (Swedish Artists) written by and about Swedish-American artists in the Chicago area.
