Geoff Twigg has been involved in music and ministry for many years. He was Worship Pastor at West Shore Evangelical Free Church (nr Harrisburg PA) from 1994-2008 and at Bethany Covenant Church, Bedford NH from 2008-2011. A Fellow of Trinity College, London, Geoff studied composition with John Tavener, played guitar on BBC radio and TV and commercial recordings; he also has many production credits. As a Board member of the Music and Worship Foundation, he worked with Jeremy Begbie and David Peacock to design the degree in Music, Worship and Theology at London School of Theology, and has also taught at the Royal Academy of Music, the University of London, London International Film School and Messiah College, PA. He also won many prizes, including the Royal Philharmonic Society Prize for Composition. Geoff has been worship leader and a speaker at major events around the world including Spring Harvest and the World and European Baptist Congresses. He was also a member of the Archbishop of Canterbury's "Praise Force" to Africa, and led worship at CURE International's Global Summit (2011) in Nairobi, Kenya. Geoff is a member of the Evangelical Covenant Commission on Worship and, with Glenn Kaiser, will present a workshop at Midwinter 2012. An Englishman, Geoff has strong feelings about soccer and tea. He is married to Vicki, a cellist and fabric artist, and they have three adult children.
