Fall 2010

HSTY 6210: Christian Tradition and Mission

Prof. Mary Veeneman, Ph.D.

Office: Caroline Hall, 3rd Floor

mveeneman@northpark.edu

Office hours: Mondays – 1:00 pm-5:00pm, Tuesdays - 8:00 am-9:45 am, Thursdays - 8:30 am-9:45 am

Course Description

This course is a survey of the great Christian thinkers of the West from beginnings to post-modernity. Focus will be placed on distinctly Western forms of Christian thought in the Roman Catholic and Protestant traditions with some attention to the Anabaptist and Evangelical Covenant Communities. The course will also cover emerging feminist and underrepresented theologies and the growth of Christianity in the non-Western world.

Required Readings

Required readings will be drawn from the books listed below. Students need to bring the assigned readings to class each day. Failure to do so will negatively impact the participation grade.

Braaten, Carl and Jenson, Robert, eds., The Catholicity of the Reformation, Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1996.

Noll, Mark, The New Shape of World Christianity, Downers Grove: InterVarsity Press, 2009.

Placher, William, A History of Christian Theology: An Introduction, Louisville: Westminster John Knox Press, 1983.

Williams, D.H., ed. The Free Church and the Early Church, Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1998.

Additional required readings are available on Blackboard.

Course Objectives for Students

1. To engage in the critical analysis of texts.
2. To understand the importance of historical theological understanding as a foundation for theological work.
3. To understand the trajectory of Western theology in its historical context.
4. To consider the debates that resulted in classic formulations of Western theology.
5. To understand the role of historical theology in the life of both the church and the individual reader.
6. To understand how historical theology informs civic and communal engagement.

Grading

All grades will be calculated on a 100-point scale:

93	A Excellent. Demonstrates outstanding, honors-level work.
90	A- Excellent work.
87	B+ Very Good. Demonstrates a high level of performance.
83	B Good. Demonstrates above average level of performance.
80	B- Good. Still above average
77	C+ Demonstrates competence. Average level of performance.
73	C Satisfactory. Demonstrates acceptable level of performance.
70	C- Minimally acceptable performance.
60	D Passing but unsatisfactory. Below average performance.
59-0	F Failure. Demonstrates incompetence: inferior performance.

The following grading standards provide further guidance for your written work.

“A” work: (1) Responds fully to the assignment; (2) Expresses its purpose clearly and convincingly; (3) Is directed toward and meets the needs of a defined audience; (4) Begins and ends effectively; (5) Provides adequate supporting arguments, evidence, examples, and details; (6) Is well-organized and unified; (7) Uses appropriate, direct language; (8) Correctly acknowledges and documents sources; (9) Is free of errors in grammar, punctuation, word choice, spelling, and format; and (10) Maintains a level of excellence throughout and shows originality and creativity in realizing (1) through (7)

“B” work: Realizes (1) through (9) fully and completely—and demonstrates overall technical excellence—but often shows little or no original insight or creativity.

“C” work: Realizes (1) through (9) adequately—and demonstrates overall competence—but contains a few, relatively minor errors or flaws. A “C” paper may show great capacity and originality, but those qualities don’t make up for poor or careless writing. A “C” paper usually looks and reads like it would benefit from some additional drafts or research.

“D” work: Fails to realize some elements of (1) through (9) adequately—and contains many serious errors or flaws, and usually many minor ones, as well. A “D” paper often looks and reads like a first or second draft.

“F” work: Fails to realize several elements of (1) through (9) adequately—and contains many serious errors or flaws, and usually many minor ones, as well. An “F” paper looks and reads like a first draft written the day before the paper was due.

COURSE POLICIES

Course Grade

1. Research Paper (30%)

2. Midterm (20%)
3. Book Reviews (20%)
4. Presentation (10%)
5. Final exam (20%)

Attendance

Students are expected to attend all classes, arrive promptly and well-prepared, and to conduct themselves respectfully in their interaction with class members. Please remember to turn off your cell phones before the beginning of class.

Laptop Policy

Laptops may not be used during student presentations or class discussions.

Participation Grade

Part of the participation grade will be based on discussion of the readings on Blackboard prior to class. Please see sheet listed “Elements of Your Participation Grade” attached to this syllabus and available on Blackboard under “Course Information.”

Academic Honesty

North Park University’s policies on academic integrity regarding issues of plagiarism and cheating will be strictly enforced. All written assignments (other than papers) must be submitted electronically via email. All papers must be submitted digitally via Blackboard’s SafeAssign. Please note that any instance of plagiarism or cheating is sufficient reason for a grade of “F” for the course

Late Work

Please note that late work will not be accepted. Missed exams due to an unexcused absence cannot be made up. All papers must be submitted to Turnitin via Moodle by 11:59 pm on the day due to receive credit.

Papers

One 12-14 page paper with an original topic crafted by the student will be required for the course. Papers are to be double-spaced, using 12-point font, with regular 1-inch margins on the top, bottom and sides. Citations are to follow the Chicago Manual of Style. Students will offer a 5-10 minute presentation to the class on their topic on a corresponding date on the syllabus (i.e. students writing on the ancient church will present earlier in the semester than students writing on the Reformation). A thesis statement and bibliography will be due on the day of the presentation via email. The written paper will be due one week after the presentation date. If you need an extension, you may have one additional week to work on it, but after two weeks, the paper will receive no credit. Additional paper guidelines will be posted on Blackboard in the “Course Documents” section.

In addition to the research paper, three four-page book reviews will be required. Each book review will cover one of the assigned books (Williams, Braaten and Jenson, Noll). For each review, you should spend one page giving a brief overview of the book and then three pages offering a critical interaction with the book. The critical interaction should include a consideration of the ways in which what you have learned from the book can be connected to other course material and positive and negative critiques. Due dates for these reviews are listed in the course schedule.

Examinations

As preparation for the midterm and the final exam, students should review all reading assignments and lectures. The final exam is comprehensive, though its emphasis will be on the material studied after the midterm.

Communication

Students are strongly encouraged to be in communication with me regarding any questions or concerns about the course. Please do this early. It is much easier to address concerns about a grade in September or October than it is to do so in late November. By late in the semester, much of the grade is already determined. For your own privacy, please do not make inquiries about your grade after class, but rather email me or come see me in the office.
