

THE EPISTLES TO THE EPHESIANS AND COLOSSIANS—BIBL 5166

NORTH PARK THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Fall Semester 2012—Tuesday 9:30-12:15

August 28-December 14

Instructor: Klyne Snodgrass

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The analysis of these “sister letters” will deal with their relation, the purpose of both letters, and their teaching about salvation, life in Christ in this world, and the description of the church and its ministries. Three hours credit.

OBJECTIVES

1. To become thoroughly familiar with the content and the theology of the “sister” letters known as Ephesians and Colossians.
2. To focus attention on the hermeneutical process—specifically, both the method of biblical study and the process of understanding, theologizing, application, and moving to articulation.
3. To become familiar with the critical issues and the literature relevant to both letters, especially the so-called Colossian heresy and the question of the destination and authorship of Ephesians.
4. To understand the contribution of both letters to Paul’s theology, especially with regard to Christology, soteriology, ecclesiology, and ethics.
5. To gain insight into the significance of these letters for understanding our identity—the identity of Christians in general and of ourselves individually, particularly as it relates to “life in Christ.”
6. To develop procedures whereby the impact of Ephesians—surely one of the most important documents ever written—and Colossians may be communicated to people in our time.
7. To develop skills in moving from text to proclamation.

PROCEDURE

Given the variety of backgrounds represented in the class, each person will be expected to work at his or her own level. Class sessions will be dialogical and sometimes will focus on small groups. Students are expected to be prepared for class through readings and work on the study guide prior to class. If you have had Greek, you will be expected to use Greek in all assignments and to translate an appropriate amount of each letter. If you have not had Greek, alternative assignments and readings will be substituted. Each person should make every attempt to use inclusive language sensitive to the variety of persons in the class. We will work on introductory issues for both letters, then I will take the primary responsibility of explaining Colossians, and then students will have greater responsibility for explaining Ephesians.

Questions and conversation about Ephesians and Colossians can be posted on Moodle under “Hall of Tyrannus.”

Caps and phones will be in the off position during class. Nothing from the course such as recordings, videos, or course material may be placed on the internet or social media networks.

TEXTS

I am not requiring specific texts for this class. The choice of commentaries for each letter for this class depends in part on each student's ability and experience. You need to select one commentary for each letter for your foundational reading. If you have had Greek and/or previous experience in biblical studies, you are expected to use the more technical commentaries. For papers and specific assignments for class you will be expected to use a variety of commentaries and articles. For the more technical commentaries on Colossians I would list:

- Barth, Markus and Blanke, Helmut. Colossians. Anchor Bible 34B. Translated by Astrid B. Beck. New York: Doubleday, 1994.
- Dunn, J.D.G. The Epistles to the Colossians and to Philemon (NIGTC). Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1996.
- Harris, Murray J. Colossians and Philemon. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1991.
- Lightfoot, Joseph B. Saint Paul's Epistles to the Colossians and to Philemon. London: Macmillan, 1886.
- Lohse, Eduard. Colossians and Philemon. Hermeneia. Translated by William R. Poehlmann. Philadelphia: Fortress Press, 1971.
- Douglas J. Moo. The Letters to the Colossians and to Philemon. Pillar New Testament Commentary. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 2008.
- Moule, C. F. D. The Epistles of Paul to the Colossians and the Philemon. Cambridge: University Press, 1956.
- O'Brien, Peter T. Colossians, Philemon. Word Biblical Commentary. Waco: Word Books, 1982.
- Wilson, R.McL. A Critical and Exegetical Commentary on Colossians (ICC, rev.). London: T. & T. Clark, 2005.

For the less technical but still substantive see:

- Garland, David. Colossians and Philemon. NIV Application Commentary. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 1998.
- Martin, Ralph P. Colossians and Philemon. New Century Bible. Greenwood, SC: Attic Press, 1974.
- Thompson, M. M. Colossians & Philemon (THNTC). Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 2005.
- Wright, N. T. The Epistles of Paul to the Colossians and to Philemon. Tyndale NT Commentaries. Leicester: InterVarsity, 1986.

For the more technical commentaries on Ephesians I would list:

- Barth, Markus. Ephesians. Vols. 34 and 34A The Anchor Bible. Garden City, N.Y.: Doubleday and Company, Inc., 1974.
- Best, Ernest. Ephesians. The International Critical Commentary. Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1997.
- Hoehner, Harold. Ephesians: An Exegetical Commentary. Grand Rapids: Baker Academic, 2002.
- Lincoln, Andrew T. Ephesians. Vol. 42 of Word Biblical Commentary. Dallas: Word Books, 1990.
- Schnackenburg, Rudolf. Ephesians: A Commentary. Translated by Helen Heron. Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1991.
- Thielman, Frank. Ephesians. Baker Exegetical Commentary. Grand Rapids: Baker, 2010.

Among those less technical but still substantive I would encourage you to use:

MacDonald, Margaret Y. Colossians and Ephesians. Sacra Pagina. Collegeville, Minn.: Liturgical, 2000.

O'Brien, Peter T. The Letter to the Ephesians. The Pillar New Testament Commentary. Grand Rapids: William B. Eerdmans Publishing Co., 1999.

Snodgrass, Klyne. Ephesians. The NIV Application Commentary. Grand Rapids: Zondervan, 1996.

Stott, John R. W. God's New Society. Downers Grove: InterVarsity Press, 1980. Also published as The Message of Ephesians.

As always, read critically!

REQUIREMENTS

On time attendance at all classes is assumed.

1. a. Read all ten chapters of Ephesians and Colossians the first week and begin the study guide. Read Acts 18:18–20:38 and the articles on Colossae and Ephesus in The Anchor Bible Dictionary, I, 1089 and II, 542–549 respectively. Due Aug. 31.
b. Read the introduction to Colossians in Barth and Blanke, pp. 7-134 or O'Brien, pp. xxvi-liv. Due Aug. 31.
2. During the next four weeks (Aug 28-Sept 25) read Colossians once each week changing the perspective each week so that you read as:
 - a. a lay person seeking an active faith
 - b. an academic especially concerned for knowledge
 - c. a person with an inferiority complex
 - d. a theologian trying to understand salvation
3. Throughout the term answer the questions on the study guide before class. After the first week, the study guide sections and translations must be done prior to class sessions on the relevant sections of Colossians and Ephesians and prior to any relevant reading. In this class more focus will be placed on your own working with the Greek text of both letters, if you have had Greek, or on a translation, if you have not, and less on reading secondary sources.
4. Read at least 350 pages exclusive of any research for your paper. Include the specific items required (such as the articles on Ephesus and Colossae and the articles listed in the proposed schedule below) and a balance of readings from the commentary selected on Colossians and the one selected on Ephesians. Keep good records, for a reading report will be required at the end of the term to indicate what was read. For Greek translation work do not write out your translations. Turn in only your worksheets on which you have identified words and parsed (completely) verb forms not immediately recognized. I hope your Greek is sufficient to translate both letters; if not, think first of the following: Col. 1:9-23, 24-29; 2:6-15; 2:20-3:4; Eph. 1:3-14; 2:1-10 or 2:11-22; 4:1-16; 4:17-5:2; and 5:15-33. (Your work sheets should be turned in with your reading report forms at the end of the term.)
5. Read the introduction to Ephesians in Lincoln, pp. xxxv–xcvii or Hoehner, pp. 1–61 or preferably 1–114. Due Sept. 25.
6. During the next six weeks of the term (Sept 25-Nov. 3) read Ephesians once each week changing the perspective each week so that you read as:
 - a. a lay person seeking an active faith
 - b. a minority person victimized by racial oppression (If you are a minority person, select a different ethnic minority from your own.)
 - c. a person fighting depression

- d. a person preparing for ministry
 - e. a person seeking to understand the church
 - f. a wife victimized by abuse
6. Select one of the following subjects for Ephesians and be ready to initiate discussion of that topic on the specified date. You will need to have read at least three commentaries, one Pauline theology (such as Dunn's), and one periodical article.
- a. Election, especially in Eph 1:1-14 (Oct 9)
 - b. Salvation in 2:1-22 (Oct 23)
 - b. Ministry in 3:1-19 and 4:7-16 (Nov 6)
 - c. Ethics in 4:25-5:14 (Nov 20)
 - d. Submission of women and male headship in 5:18-33 (Nov 27)
 - e. Spiritual Warfare in 6:10-20 (Dec 4)
- For these assignments the instructor is glad to suggest readings.
7. Write a three page paper on the significance of Ephesians for you own spiritual development. I do not want devotional musings on your experience; I want to know what contribution Ephesians offers for your own spiritual growth. Due Nov. 20.
8. Select a section of either Colossians or Ephesians (six to ten verses) or a theme from either or both and do an investigative paper dealing with the issues and theology of the subject. Present your paper with technical accuracy according to Turabian. Minimum length is 15 double-spaced pages with no less than ten good sources used. (Bibles, lexica, and concordances do not count.) Use appropriate footnote or endnote form. Be sure to include a bibliography. If you have had Greek, you will be expected to use it. Your first task should be the translation of your text. Do not use quotations at all in the body of your paper! Due Dec. 4 with grace until Dec. 11.
