Course Description:

This course examines current theory and practice of human resource management in the context of ethical strategic management. As more organizations recognize that people are a major source of competitive advantage, human resources has taken on a more strategic role. As a result, decisions made in organizations about how to identify and hire top talent, what training to provide and how to reward them has become more critical than ever before. These decisions are just not made by the hr department. Managers are also responsible for selection, performance management and compensation decisions and therefore should have a good understanding of hr practices. Throughout this course we will view human resources as a fully functioning strategic partner in developing and implementing the mission and vision of an organization as well as developing human resources strategies that support the bottom line. As part of the practitioner model, specific tools for human resources compliance, recruitment, selection, performance appraisal, discipline and compensation/benefits will be provided throughout the text, through lecture, video clips and presentations. During this course we will also identify, analyze and present solutions for several current human resources related issues.

Introductory Comments:

Welcome to the fascinating world of human resources. This course is designed to give you a “real world” perspective on the importance and significant value that human resources can bring to an organization and be instrumental in helping to meet corporate goals.

Course Materials:

REQUIRED

Textbook(s) : Gomez-Mejia, Balkin & Cardy. Managing Human Resources (2012) 7th Ed. ISBN #978-0-13-272982-6

REQUIRED

Textbook(s): Maidment Fred, Annual Editions: Human Resources (2013) 21st Ed. ISBN-13 9780073528717

Essential IDEA Objectives:

The essential objectives of this course (per the IDEA framework, a nationally recognized assessment tool used by many higher learning institutions) are:

1. Learning fundamental principles, generalizations and theories.
2. Learning to apply course material (to improve thinking, problem solving and decisions).
3. Acquiring an interest in learning more by asking questions and seeking answers.

Specific Course Objectives:

This course is designed to provide students with an overview of the field of human resources. Upon successful completion of SBNM 5030, students will have the ability to:

1. Understand the value and importance of human resources within any size organization.
2. Understand the diversified role and responsibilities of human resources and its impact on meeting organizational goals and objectives.
3. The importance of human resources as a strategic partner in developing and implementing the mission and vision of an organization as well as strategies to support the bottom line.
4. Understand the responsibility of human resources to ensure the business meets legal and compliance requirements.
5. Become familiar with the many functions of human resources that support the needs of employees and employers.

Course Methodology:

Because this course is designed to provide a “real world” present day view of human resources, there will be considerable discussion required by students to present to the class hr related experiences they encountered while employed. Experiences may be current or past situations that involved human resources or was an hr related issue. Class participation is a key requirement of this course. Just reading theory without the opportunity to practice the application of the theory is not very effective. Throughout the course, there will be lectures, power point presentations, videos, class discussion and team presentations to help students understand the principles of human resources. The text and course supplement are the resources to be used to develop a foundation of knowledge regarding the various disciplines associated with human resources.

POLICY STATEMENTS

Academic Honesty

In keeping with our Christian heritage and commitment, North Park University and the School of Business and Nonprofit Management are committed to the highest possible ethical and moral standards. Just as we will constantly strive to live up to these high standards, we expect our students to do the same. To that end, cheating of any sort will not be tolerated. Students who are discovered cheating are subject to discipline up to and including failure of a course and expulsion.

Our definition of cheating includes but is not limited to:

1. Plagiarism – the use of another’s work as one’s own without giving credit to the individual. This includes using materials from the internet.
2. Copying another’s answers on an examination.
3. Deliberately allowing another to copy one’s answers or work.
4. Signing an attendance roster for another who is not present.

In the special instance of group work, the instructor will make clear his/her expectations with respect to individual vs. collaborative work. A violation of these expectations may be considered cheating as well. For further information on this subject you may refer to the Academic Dishonesty section of the University’s online catalog.

In conclusion, it is our mission to prepare each student for a life of significance and service. Honesty and ethical behavior are the foundation upon which such lives are built. We therefore expect the highest standards of each student in this regard.

Attendance Policy for Graduate Courses

The graduate courses in the SBNM are all 7 weeks in length. Missing one class session is allowed without penalty as long as all readings and assignments are made up by the student within a reasonable time period (the following week). Failing to log into an online course site for an entire week is allowed, but a penalty may be applied at the instructor’s discretion. Missing a second class session is allowed only in unusual circumstances by prior arrangement with the instructor. Since this represents almost 30% of the engagement time for the course, the student runs the risk of receiving a lower overall grade for the class. Faculty are encouraged to drop the course grade by a full letter grade in this situation. A student who misses three classes (or the equivalent 2 weeks for an online class) will automatically fail the course, unless the student drops the course before the seventh week of class. Students who drop a course will be held responsible for tuition, based upon the current North Park University policy outlined in the University Catalog (found on the NPU website).

Attendance Policy for Undergraduate Courses

Attendance and participation are vital. Thus, students are expected to attend every class session and to arrive on time – tardiness is undesirable and disruptive to your fellow classmates. This course has a strict requirement of documented, advance notification. If you are unable to attend any class session, you are to inform me (preferably by email) prior to that session. You need to provide a reason for your absence. Failure to provide advance notification will result in an unexcused absence. Be advised that poor attendance can affect your grade adversely.

APA Requirement

The School of Business and Nonprofit Management (SBNM) has adopted the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA) as the standard and required format for all written assignments in SBNM courses.

Our goal in adopting the APA Manual is to enhance student learning by:

- 1) Improving student's writing skills.
- 2) Standardizing the required format of all written assignments in all SBNM courses.
- 3) Emphasizing the importance of paper mechanics, grammatical constructs, and the necessity of proper citations.
- 4) Holding students accountable for high quality written work.

If you are unfamiliar with the requirements of the APA Manual, we recommend that you purchase the reference manual and/or that you consult one or more of the suggested resources as listed on the Student Resources section of the SBNM website. It is your responsibility to learn and ensure that all written work is formatted according to the standards of the APA Manual.
