Course Description:

Managers need a conceptual framework in which to explore competitive and cooperative aspects of business situations and the crucial role played by negotiations in alleviating conflict. Negotiation is a fact of daily life and skilled managers must develop the power to ethically persuade others of the right course of action. The development and use of power to influence others will be covered as well as specific negotiating tactics. Students will be afforded opportunities for actual negotiating experiences that will help them become better negotiators, attain improved resolutions for disputes, and reach more mutually beneficial agreements.

A wise man once said there are three kinds of people in the world. Those who make things happen, those who things happen to and those who sit around wondering what happened.

Course Objectives:

1. Identify and analyze formal and informal power dynamics present in your organization.
2. Describe and discuss the types and sources of power you use to get work done.
3. Plan and conduct a complex negotiation using the win/win-integrative bargaining approach.
4. Analyze a negotiation in which you have been involved.
5. Determine your basic negotiation philosophy.

Assignments:

A final grade for this course will be computed according to your successful completion of the following assignments:

Paper 1: An analysis of power in a real world organization . 50 points

- Introduce your organization and your position in the organizational chart (formal power structure).
- Describe the formal power structure as indicated by the organizational chart. To whom does the formal power structure give power and why?
- Using the material discussed in class and presented in the reading, discuss the informal power structure.
 - What are the forms of power?
 - What are the sources of power?
- Explain how things really get done in your organization (using material presented in class and in the reading).
- Explain how you make things happen – your sources of power and influence (using material presented in class and in the reading).

Paper 2: Analysis of a conflict . 50 points

Choose a negotiation in which you are (were) personally involved or had the opportunity to observe. Conduct an analysis and lay out a plan for a re-do.

- Identify and explain the situation and its requirements. What is (was) at stake here?
- If the negotiation is in the past, indicate what worked and what did not.
- Discuss your personal philosophy of negotiating and lay out your approach to the situation based upon that philosophy (demonstrate knowledge of process utilized throughout the course as well as knowledge of the reading).
- What is your hoped for outcome?

Final Project: Class Negotiation . Ridgecrest School Dispute . 45 points

The last class session will be devoted to a group negotiation based on Lewicki Exercise 18: The Ridgecrest School Dispute. Early in the class, groups will be formed to prepare and conduct this exercise. More extensive background information will be handed out to assist in the preparation. By mid-point in the course, groups should be meeting to prepare for the negotiation. The issues to be negotiated are sufficiently comprehensive that sessions with the "opposition" will probably be necessary outside of class before the final session. The final class session will be devoted to final negotiations to reach agreement. Grading will be based on the ability of the groups to apply the principles learned during the course. A memo explaining each group's intended negotiating strategy, as per the Sally Soprano example provided in class, and including BATNA, Target Point, and Reservation Point is to be handed in to the professor prior to the beginning of the final negotiation.

Paper Scoring Rubric:

Category	Excellent 10 points	Very Good 9 points	Good 8 points	Fair 7 points	Poor 6 points	Unacceptable 5 points or less
	1. Introduction (Organization)	The introduction states the main topic and the main topic clearly relates to the content of the paper. The introduction previews the structure of the paper. Course Policies:

Attendance:

The graduate courses in the SBNM are all 7 weeks in length. Missing one class session is allowed with only a 2 point deduction in participation points as long as all readings and assignments are made up by the student within a reasonable time period (the following class session). Missing a second class session is allowed only in unusual circumstances by prior arrangement and will result in 4 additional points deducted from the participation points. Since this represents more than 25% of the class time for the course, the student runs the risk of receiving a lower overall grade for the class. A student who misses three classes will automatically fail the course, unless the student drops the course before the seventh week of class. Students who drop a course will be held responsible for tuition, based upon the current

North Park University policy outlined in the University Catalog (found on the NPU website). Tardiness is a major annoyance. We will start the class on time and will expect you to be there.

Students with Disabilities:

Students with a disabilities who believe that they may need accommodations in this class are encouraged to contact your program's office (Education: 773-244-5730; Business: 773-244-6270; Nursing: 773-244-5680; Community Development: 773-244-5774; Seminary: 773-244-6219; Music: 773-244-5625). Please do so as soon as possible to better ensure that such accommodations are implemented in a timely manner. For further information please review the following website: <http://www.northpark.edu/ada>

Academic Honesty:

In keeping with our Christian heritage and commitment, North Park University and the School of Business and Nonprofit Management are committed to the highest possible ethical and moral standards. Just as we will constantly strive to live up to these high standards, we expect our students to do the same. To that end, cheating of any sort will not be tolerated. Students who are discovered cheating are subject to discipline up to and including failure of a course and expulsion.

Our definition of cheating includes but is not limited to:

1. Plagiarism – the use of another’s work as one’s own without giving credit to the individual. This includes using materials from the internet.
2. Copying another’s answers on an examination.
3. Deliberately allowing another to copy one’s answers or work.
4. Signing an attendance roster for another who is not present.

In the special instance of group work, the instructor will make clear his/her expectations with respect to individual vs. collaborative work. A violation of these expectations may be considered cheating as well. For further information on this subject you may refer to the Academic Dishonesty section of the University’s online catalog. In conclusion, it is our mission to prepare each student for a life of significance and service. Honesty and ethical behavior are the foundation upon which such lives are built. We therefore expect the highest standards of each student in this regard.

Use of APA Publication Manual:

The School of Business and Nonprofit Management (SBNM) has adopted the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (APA) as the standard and required format for all written assignments in SBNM courses.

Our goal in adopting the APA Manual is to enhance student learning by:

- 1) Improving student’s writing skills.

- 2) Standardizing the required format of all written assignments in all SBNM courses.
- 3) Emphasizing the importance of paper mechanics, grammatical constructs, and the necessity of proper citations.
- 4) Holding students accountable for high quality written work.

If you are unfamiliar with the requirements of the APA Publication Manual, we recommend that you purchase the reference manual and/or that you consult one or more of the suggested resources as listed on the Student Resources section of the SBNM website. It is your responsibility to learn and ensure that all written work is formatted according to the standards of the APA Manual.

Purdue University's writing lab has a plethora of online APA-specific resources that may be beneficial (<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/01/>). In particular, we are strongly encouraging you to download and review a general orientation to APA basics entitled "APA PowerPoint Slide Presentation" that can be found via the below link. In addition, a sample paper formatted according to APA standards with explanatory comments can also be found via the below link.
