

Get Your Flu Shot!

Why should you get the flu shot?

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends that anyone over the age of 6 months get the influenza vaccine. When more people get vaccinated, it stops flu viruses from being able to spread easily and keeps people healthier. College students should get the flu shot to prevent unexpected absences from class due to sickness.

What types of flu shots are available?

The influenza vaccine comes in two types this year:

- Trivalent: protects against 3 viruses (2 influenza A and 1 influenza B viruses)
- Quadrivalent: protects against 4 viruses (2 influenza A and 2 influenza B viruses)

You can ask for a preservative-free vaccine (if pregnant) or recombinant trivalent shot that is egg free.

Where can you get the flu shot?

Note: Always bring your health insurance card as most insurance plans will cover the flu shot.
